The band of the Fifth Cavalry gave a splendid musical program on the roof garden of the Young Hotel last night, hundreds gathering there to listen to the music. The cavalrymen have a band of which they have many reasons to be proud.

Mainland papers received at the Promotion Committee by the last mail report a great deal of interest that is being taken in Hawaii at the present time. The special reason for this is ascribed to the advertising which the Floral Parade posters are giving the islands.

Lloyd Childs is planning to have a candy-made-on-the-spot department at the sugar exhibition in the Hawaiian building at the Seattle Exposition, where pure candy can be made from Hawaiian sugar by an experienced confectioner and the products of his skill passed out free to visitors by some pretty Hawaiian girl. Mr. Childs figures that this can be done with little expense and would attract attention to the exhibit.

The Bureau of Agriculture and Forestry is making a collection of the woods of Hawaii to form a part of the Hawaiian exhibition at the Seattle exposition, the species peculiar to each island being brought together to make a complete showing. Nearly one hundred different species of wood are to be found here. Yesterday J. F. Rock, assistant of Forester R. S. Hosmer, left for Kauai, in company with A. E. Knudsen, to secure logs from which specimen blocks will be sawn. Mr. Knudsen is one of the Hawaiian commissioners for the exposition.

LINCOLN EXERCISES AT PUNAHOU PREPARATORY

The one hundredth anniversary of the birthday of Lincoln was celebrated by the Punahou Preparatory School yesterday afternoon by a series of essays descriptive of the life of the great Emancipator, written and delivered by students of the eighth grade. As an introduction to the program six children from the second grade—Marjorie Guild, Dorothea Krauss, Madeline Chapin, John Low, Bert Lord and Thomas Singlehurst—paid a tribute to Lincoln by reciting verses in his honor and decorating with leis his picture, presented to the school last year by the students.

The first paper was by Elizabeth Low on "The Boyhood of Lincoln," followed by a sketch of his political career by William Schuman. Helen McLean's essay dealt with "The Presidency of Lincoln and the Emancipation Proclamation." After chorus singing "God Bless Our Native Land" by the school, Douglas Baldwin delivered the famous Gettysburg address. "The Martyr's Death," an essay by Daphne Damon and a reading by Margaret Restarick, "A Crime Without a Name," told of the close of Lincoln's career and the program was concluded by the flag salute and "America."

A LEADING EAGLE.

Morris Rosenberg, one of the former well-known residents of Honolulu and a prominent member of the fraternal order of Eagles, is now coming to the front in San Francisco as a prominent, well-liked citizen. Mr. Rosenberg has, at the hands of Mr. Sid. Turner, who lately returned from San Francisco, sent various remembrances to friends here, and expresses his belief in a brilliant future for Honolulu and Hawaii. He is in position to know much of the trend of tourist travel and, Mr. Rosenberg states, the coming season is sure to be productive of a large tourist travel this way.

Mr. Rosenberg was the first delegate sent from Hawaii to a convention of Eagles, and was also honored by San Francisco Aerie No. 5, of which he is now a member, in being appointed delegate to the convention of Eagles held in Seattle in 1908, and in being again elected delegate to the coming convention to be held in Omaha. The Grand Deputy of the Order of Eagles in this Territory is a personal friend of Mr. Rosenberg.
